

Katydid Back in the Blue-grass.

(To the Editor Interior Journal.)

After I said that I was in love with Montgomery I got sorry and went back home to the blue-grass and oh, what a meeting of memories! I just let down a veil between my heart and the South and fell to loving as I never loved before the blue-grass country, my own Kentucky. I saw it in the zenith of its glory, waving its bloom in one unbroken sea of green all around and about me. It was a little after sundown when the train swept into the grass region. Ah, it was so lovely! There was yet a radiance on the clouds and the far meadows, either misty with bloom or vapor, purpled with a thousand hues off into the twilight, while steadily lowered the night over the heaven of the hills. Madge and I sat with our faces pressed against the pane, while far down the West the beautiful day died and was borne by unseen angels from sight and as the train swept along through this lovely country under the dark, it was like being in Heaven with the lights out.

After a week's stay at Crescent Hill, Louisville, so famous for its beech nooks and groves, where every hour was crowded with delights; we wandered out to Pewee Valley and on to Frankfort, where we were entertained by Col. E. H. Taylor at his charming home, "Thistleton." It is of this place and the girl Margurite that I wish most to write about to-day. This visit was the realization of a friendship formed under somewhat romantic circumstances. Margurite it was, who, enjoying the verses over my nom de plume, while yet a stranger, hunted out my tree top and poured forth a libation to Katydid's songs. Did I value this? Have I cherished the lovely souvenirs that since then have yearly gladdened me? And what of the invitation to come? What of Margurite? You should have seen us behind her handsome bay, "Beauty," driving up the pike that would about the hills up, even to the top, to "Thistleton." And I wish I might have photographed my heart for her and for you, that both might divine its real meaning.

"Thistleton" is elegant within and without. The daisies were in season and the flower decorations were, of course, all Margurites. Dishes full, baskets full, vases full and heart full to-day. So it is that Margurite doeth all things daintily.

After a paradise of dreams on this grassy elevation, we were awakened in the early morning by the sound of wheels. "All aboard for Alexander's!" called out the drivers. There were ten in the party. Away we drove to the famous Woodford county stock farms. It had been a long, long time since I had heard the rhythmic clatter of hoofs upon a hard road and it put my heart in tune right away. On we sped, over seventeen miles of "God's country"—a heaven of beauty truly.

All the blooded horses, not one of which was valued for less than $50,000, were brought forth from their stalls for us to view. Mr. Alexander recently refused $75,000 for "Expedition," a rich, glossy brown, and about the finest piece of handiwork that ever gladdened these eyes. (Some one has said "next to a beautiful woman a beautiful horse always," but that's hardly fair—considering the Kentucky men.)

We also visited Mr. Harper's stock farm and we stood long beside "Long-fellow." "I give him about three more years of life," said the groom, "he's 25 now and will soon lie down there by Ten Broeck," he added, pointing to the grave of the great racer. I went over and pulled a spray of striped grass from the mound as a memento and when I came back to take my last look at Long-fellow, his keeper cut for me a lock of his mane. And after that we spread our lunch before an old rock spring house and after that 17 more miles of heaven and then home. And now what think you of the girl Margurite? Lovely, loyal Margurite?

Madge, I will confess was a myth—my ventriloquist, who was willing always to go and come with me on my journeying. Her sayings brought a letter from the little city on the St. Asaph, addressed to my care. It was a love letter. "Madge is a myth" I wrote across the opening page and returned it to the writer. So ends the story. Good bye. Yours Sincerely, KATYDID.

When you see me again it will be face to face. I am going to summer at Green Briar Springs and will welcome from Stanford any and all who come out to the cool.

—F. C. Blatcher, of a Newark, N. J. democratic club, fell out of a window at Chicago and was killed.

—Fourteen convicts were sentenced to the penitentiary at Lexington, Saturday, by Judge Morton. The total term of years for the lot amounts to 83. There was only one white man in the lot.

—Mr. Harrison was just informed Tuesday what everybody in the United States had known for two weeks, that he has been re-nominated for president. There's a great deal of foolishness about politics.

DANVILLE.

—Mr. A. G. Karsener, of Lexington, formerly of this place, is in town looking after his real estate.

—Thomas, son of Smith Montgomery died Tuesday at the home of his father, near Parksville, of consumption, aged 28.

—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walton, aged about ten days, died Tuesday night. The little creature had been very frail from its birth.

—Mr. Robert Williams and Miss Hannah Good, both of the knob section of the county, obtained marriage license Wednesday. He is 18 and she is 15.

—Mary Lizzie Johnson and Hettie Crittenden were each fined $11.40 in the police court Wednesday for fighting. Henry Johnson, the husband of Mary Lizzie, was the bone of contention.

—Betsy Bottoms, a 17-year-old colored girl, who lived with the family of her uncle, Charley Bottoms, on Col. J. T. Fackler's place, died Tuesday of brain fever. The remains were taken to Perryville for burial.

—Hon. T. C. Bell, of Harrodsburg, was in town Tuesday and announced himself a candidate for circuit court judge for this district. He announced also that Judge Hughes had withdrawn from the contest for Commonwealth's attorney.

—John N. Rowsey, a native of this county, who went West 16 years ago, is back on a visit to his old home and his mother. He is now a passenger conductor on the road running from Palisade, Nevada, to Eureka, Nevada. He is very popular with his employers and deservedly so. He is a son of the late Jasper Rowsey.

—About ten days ago Amanda Doty was fined in the police court $6.40 for abusing Maria Nurse. Amanda, displeased at being fined, went before Judge McFerran and swore out a warrant charging Maria and Manuel Doty with lewd conduct. This case coming for trial Wednesday morning was promptly dismissed by Judge McFerran, the motive of the prosecuting witness being clearly shown.

—Wm. Drye, who shot and wounded Hiram Cowan Sunday night so that he died Monday morning, was tried before Judge McFerran Wednesday and held for further trial in the sum of $750. Drye and Cowan were both colored. Cowan had many friends among both white and colored people. Drye is such a vicious, insolent rascal that no sympathy is expressed for him in this trouble and no satisfaction over the fact that his defense (he did not testify himself) was a rather strong one.

—Complaints have recently been made to the city recorder of the violation of a town ordinance which has been practically a dead letter for a number of years, although it has been in existence, at least, since 1880. It appears as follows: "Any person of any age guilty of throwing stones or balls, or of throwing a snow ball, kicking any ball upon any of the streets, or upon any of the public places or grounds within the limits of the town, shall be fined for each offense $1." Under the above Bud Oweley and John Cowan, both colored, were fined $1 and costs each Tuesday.

—The base ball game between the Harrodsburg and Danville teams Tuesday resulted in a victory for the Danvilles. Score 2 to 0. The features of the game were the battery work of Elting and Jones, Elting striking out 21 men and one soft hit. Fitzgerald, late of the Louisville league team, struck out 13 men and three hits. Hann made a brilliant catch for the Danvilles and carried off the fielding honors for his team. Lansing's field work was gilded. The Danvilles play again at Harrodsburg Friday. R. G. Evans as umpire gave general satisfaction.

—A telegram was received Wednesday morning from Waco, Texas, by Mr. J. A. Quisenberry announcing the death of his wife's half-brother, Mr. Charles R. Beatty, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The cause of death was not stated, although it has been known here that Mr. Beatty's health for some time past had been rather feeble. Deceased was born in Danville, July 12, 1840, and was the only son of the late President Ormond Beatty, of Centre College. He graduated from Centre College in 1859. Some of his classmates were Thomas Adams, then of Mercer county, now of Marshall, Mo.; Wilkins G. Anderson, Louisville; John D. Bryan, then of Lincoln, now of Las Cruces, New Mexico; Cabell B. Bullock, Lexington; Charles H. Dobbs, Round Rock, Texas; Felix G. Fox, St. Louis; R. P. Jacobs, Reed L. McMurtry, and President W. C. Young, of Danville. During the civil war Mr. Beatty was a member of the 1st regiment of Texas, mounted infantry. He returned to Kentucky shortly after the close of the war, but after remaining several years went back to Texas, where he was married to Miss Lizzie J. Campbell, of Milford, Jan. 1, 1866. During his residence in Texas he served two terms as circuit court clerk—one of Hill county and one of McLemore county. At the time of his death he was engaged in farming. Mr. Beatty's mother was a sister of Col. Charles H.

Rochester, late of Stanford. The remains will probably be brought to Danville for interment. Mrs. Beatty died about a year ago, leaving no children.

McCreary the people have a representative of whom they are justly proud, a faithful and untiring servant, an able and honorable statesman, a tried and true democrat." The following democrats were appointed to attend the convention to be held at Nicholasville July 9th: Col. F. L. Thompson, E. B. Smith, Matt Pike, D. N. Williams, Champ Mullins and C. W. Adams and instructed to cast the vote of Rockcastle county for Hon. James B. McCreary for nomination for Congress in this, the 8th district of Kentucky.

—George L. Walden has announced himself a candidate for circuit clerk, subject to the action of the democracy.

—The Barnes meetings at the Court-house continue with unabated interest. On next Monday evening he will deliver one of his famous lectures, "Lost Tribes."

—Lancaster's loafers are now discussing the presidential campaign. Of course they "knew all the time" who would be the nominees and have virtually settled the election.

—Next Sunday the union meetings will begin and continue through the summer months. The first services will be held at the Presbyterian church conducted by Eld. Frank and will commence at 5:30 o'clock.

—The census of 1890 shows that there were 970,000 gallons of distilled spirits, wines and malt liquors consumed in the United States during that year. The consumption per head of population averaged 15½ gallons. The fact that about two-thirds of the population consumed no part of the liquors referred to shows that the average of that used by those who drink would have been at least three times that given in the estimate including the entire population, which would make the average about 45 gallons, the contents of an ordinary barrel.

—Dr. Rogers, of Bloomington, Ind., spent a few days here this week. Mary Burnside is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. G. Dunlap at Camp Nelson. Mrs. E. D. Potts and niece, Eugenia Denny, returned to Lexington Wednesday. Mr. Will Barnes and family arrived Wednesday to attend the meeting held by Rev. George O. Barnes. Miss Sallie Nelson, of Cynthia, is visiting Miss Kate Walden. Miss Annie Burrows is the guest of Miss Nancy Anderson. Miss Mary Spilman, of Bryantville, spent Wednesday with friends. Mr. John Humphreys was with Kirk Kirby Wednesday. Miss Georgie Barnes, who has been ill for several days, is rapidly improving.

—It is singular, but nevertheless true, that the magnates of the various political parties, with scarcely an exception, assume the role of prophet upon the approach of every presidential contest. Men who never mix with the people who do the voting; who move in a limited circle and are often unacquainted with their next door neighbor; who have nothing in common with the masses, who earn their living by their daily toil, are vociferous in their assumptions of what the people want and what they are going to do. They assume that the people think as they think and will do as they do, regardless of right and wrong and the only use they have for the voter is to get the benefit of the ballot he is authorized to cast.

—The New York Press says that "One John Smith, a Kentucky negro, who stands convicted of violating the liquor law in 1885 instances has been fined one million dollars. If Smith pays his fine he will have to go very light on water-melons this summer." Now this same Smith is a denizen of Lancaster, and resides on "Battle Row" and it is safe to assume that he will get his share of water-melons and tangle foot whisky whether he pays the small fine against him or not. Doubtless the amount of the fine has but little terror for Smith and if he can only escape the rock pile his slumbers will be peaceful and uninterrupted. At all events those who sympathize with him are at liberty to contribute towards raising a fund to ship him off to Canada, where he can defy the law and receive the congratulations of his friends and admirers.

—The National Tribune favors compulsory education and compulsory voting. It claims that every child in the country should be compelled to attend school long enough to get the elements of education and every voter should be compelled to visit the polls election day and deposit his ballot. The trouble in this country is not that the voters stay away from the polls, but that many of them go too often and deposit too many ballots. Especially is this true in reference to that large and rapidly increasing element that are not only willing but anxious to dispose of their suffrage to the highest bidder. The tendency of events seems to be in the direction of taking from the citizen the right to think and act for himself, and if this should continue to be the policy of the government, State or National, the day is not distant when freemen will be converted into machines to be used by those in power for the accomplishment of their sordid and selfish ends.

—Dr. Henry Martin Sander, confined in jail at Chicago charged with murdering his mother-in-law, took a heavy dose of morphine and died shortly afterward.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

The Convention's Choice, Everybody's Choice.

Grover and Frankie, with Baby Ruth, to Occupy the White House Again.

The Nomination Secured on the First Ballot.

And Afterwards Made Unanimous New York Promising Absolute Submission.

CLEVELAND &amp; STEVENSON THE TICKET.

The people have triumphed over disgruntled politicians and what-nots and Grover Cleveland is the democratic nominee for president of the United States. The nomination was made on the first ballot, which was not concluded till 3:40 A. M. yesterday and the cheering that followed has never before been equalled in breath or length. It nearly lifted the top off the Wigwam and lasted 45 minutes. The victory was one of the grandest ever recorded and shows that honesty of purpose, courage of conviction and broad statesmanship are still the pride of the democrats of the country. No man since he who was first in the hearts of his countrymen, has ever been held in higher esteem by the American people than Grover Cleveland, who gave the country one of the cleanest and most patriotic administrations in its history. The people know the man who is sincere in his belief that "public office is a public trust," can be relied on, and they love and honor him for that and the enemies he has made among the politicians, who could not use him nor dictate to him when he had the high office before. All honor to the delegates, who did not betray their trust as some of the Kentuckians did, and glory hallelujah now and always! The man of destiny is in the saddle again and will lead us to certain and triumphant victory.

THE WAY IT WAS DONE AND OTHER NOTES.
The National Democratic Convention was called to order by Senator Brice at 12:45 P. M., Tuesday and the prearranged programme of making Hon. W. C. Owens, of Kentucky, temporary chairman, was carried out without contest in the convention. He delivered a short and pointed speech counselling harmony and predicting democratic success. The roll of States was then called for the appointment of the committees and the convention after adopting a resolution of sympathy for Hon. James G. Blaine in the loss of his son, adjourned till 11 A. M., Wednesday.

The Kentucky delegation organized by electing C. J. Bronston chairman. Mr. Watterson declined to serve on the platform committee and James A. McKenzie was elected, C. H. Rhodes was put on the committee on credentials, Col. John B. Castleman permanent organization, T. E. Moss vice-president, W. B. Haldeman chairman delegation committee on arrangements, and John P. Salyer on notification committee. Thomas H. Sherley was made National committeeman for Kentucky, at the suggestion of Mr. Watterson, who did not longer care for the honor.

Wednesday the Convention met a little more promptly and after the report of the committee on credentials and that on permanent organization, Congressman W. L. Wilson, who had been agreed on for permanent chairman, was introduced and made a speech which did full justice to his reputation as an orator and a statesman. His declaration that the democratic party would never permit this to become either a pauper or a pirate nation was cheered roundly. The statement that the reciprocity of the McKinley bill meant rather retaliation and retaliation against our own people, was applauded heartily. Simple Simon fishing for whales in his mother's rain barrel and catching an occasional wigglewaggle, presented a true and realistic picture of reciprocity according to the present republican plan. This characterization aroused laughter and shouts of applause and quick, impetuous shouts greeted the statement that the democratic candidate would not receive congratulations from the foreign castles of protection Barons of this country.

Here is a key note from Chairman Wilson's speech: "Republican success in this campaign, when we look at the party platform, means that the people are to be stripped of their franchise through Force bills, in order that they may be stripped of their substance through tariff bills. Free government is self-government. There is no self-government when the people do not control their own elections and own taxes."

The anti-Cleveland men attempted to abrogate the unit rule, but it was no go and after listening to speeches from Senator Palmer and others the convention took a recess till 5 P. M.

On reassembling the platform and various other matters were considered and it was late before Gov. Abbott, of New Jersey, arose to put Mr. Cleveland in nomination, which he did most eloquently. Wm. C. Dewitt, of New York, named David B. Hill and John M. Duncombe, of Iowa, did a like service for Gov. Boies. Patrick A. Collins, George W. Ochs and our own Jim McKenzie seconded the nomination of Cleveland, Mr. Watterson that of Boies. The call of States was then ordered, when the following vote resulted: Cleveland, 616; Hill 114; Boies 103; Gorman 36; Stevenson 16; Carlisle 14; Campbell 2; Patterson 1; Russell 1; Whitney 1. The nomination was then made unanimous and the New York delegation "pledged absolute submission". The Kentucky delegation voted 18 for Cleveland, six for Carlisle and two for Boies.

The platform opposes Federal centralization; denounces the proposed national control of elections, warning the people against another Force bill; demands a strictly revenue tariff; denounces the McKinley bill, sham reciprocity, trusts and the Sherman act of 1890; declares for gold and silver bimetalism at parity; recommends the repeal of the tax on State bank issues; favors civil service reform, an adequate navy and a consistent and vigorous foreign policy; sympathizes with the oppressed in Russia and Ireland; opposes undesirable immigration; favors proper internal improvements; condemns compulsory education and all sumptuary legislation; favors just and liberal pensions, etc.

STEVENSON NOMINATED FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

CHICAGO, June 23, 2 P. M.—Evident inclination on part of delegates that Boies should be the choice for vice-president, but Iowa delegates say he won't accept. Some New York delegates say N. Y. will oppose the nomination of Gray; will accept any but him, their choice being Boies.

It is said Neal, of Ohio, will be put in nomination. Delegates slowly assembling. Gray's men came in with flags and banners, amid great enthusiasm. CHICAGO, June 23.—Convention called to order at 2:34 P. M. Call of States ordered for presentation of candidates for vice-president. Nominating speeches limited to 5 minutes and seconding speeches to 2 minutes. Arkansas gives its place to Indiana and Lamb, of that State, takes platform to present Gray. Great cheering.

Lamb's reference to Cleveland brought out burst of applause as did reference to Cochran, of New York. He predicted victory for democracy and promised Indiana's electoral vote sure with Gray on the ticket.

Connecticut and Idaho second Gray. Iowa declines to present Boies and Worthington, of Illinois, nominates Stevenson. Heavy storm prevailing drowns his voice. John S. Rhea, of Kentucky, seconds Stevenson. Gov. Flower in behalf of New York also seconds him. Ohio seconds Gray, Texas Stevenson and so does Virginia; Washington seconds Gray.

Gov. Bragg takes the floor to present Mitchell, of Wisconsin.

His speech is interrupted by storm and band strikes up Dixie amid much cheering, after which he resumes. Call of States ordered at 4:05.

Result of first ballot is as follows: Stevenson 402; Gray 343; Morse 86; Mitchell 45; Watterson 26.

Changes began to be made before the ballot was announced and Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, Cleveland's first assistant postmaster general, was nominated for vice-president on the first ballot amid great enthusiasm.

Ex-Secretary of the Navy Whitney was Mr. Cleveland's manager and a capable one he proved himself. He made no mistakes in his figures as to his chief's strength and made no enemies. In fact his whole effort was for harmony and he went about adding supporters to the Cleveland column. He even placated to a great extent the Tammany crowd, who, he claims, are good democrats and will come loyally to the support of the nominee.

The New York delegation sent word to the Kentuckians by Little Phil Thompson that they would give Carlisle 50 votes on the first ballot. The emissary was referred to Mr. Carlisle, who very promptly said he was not seeking the nomination for himself, but was for Mr. Cleveland.

Col. John B. Castleman stood by Mr.

Cleveland from first to last and he will have some say in Kentucky appointments when the ex-president again becomes president. Hon. James A. McKenzie was also loyal to the last and will keep an eye on the "somebodies in Kentucky who are out of humor with Grover."

The Chicago Herald in its convention gossip, draws this picture of Delegate John Rhea: He is beyond all question, and this is conceded by the entire delegation, without detriment to others, the homeliest man in Kentucky. He has little twinkling, black eyes, heavy, dark eyebrows, an unshaven beard, which resembles the back of a Kentucky hog, and an expression of countenance that would make him an object of interest to the police if he lived in Chicago. When asked what the Kentucky delegation was about to do Mr. Rhea said he knew nothing. When asked if Mr. Watterson had been made a National committeeman, he said he did not know. When asked if he knew the relative strength of the Kentucky delegation between candidates, he said he did not know. "Do you know anything, Mr. Rhea?" asked the reporter. "No."

Mr. Rhea was right; he didn't know enough to see that his constituents wanted Cleveland and no one else and didn't have gumption enough to stop training with the Hill crowd and come in out of the wet.

We are glad that this country is not absolutely dependent for its existence on Mr. Henry Watterson, of the Courier-Journal, and that possibly Mr. Cleveland can be elected without his valuable assistance. He absolutely refused to vote for Mr. Cleveland in the convention, preferring, as he said, not to vote rather than vote for him. The "acclamation" delegate, who seems to have outgrown his trousers, ought to go out behind the house and kick himself or have some stouter and more able bodied man to do it. Henri is not omnipotent and will henceforth live on humble pie and crow.

LITTLE PHIL THOMPSON was with the Tammany crowd shouting for Hill, or anybody to beat Cleveland, but the little man got left almost as badly as when Mr. Cleveland refused to make him commissioner of internal revenue. As Mr. Cleveland will be elected this fall, Philip will not be an applicant for office and he and the Blackburn-Watterson crowd, who all got mad with the ex-president for measuring them at their right size will be in the consumme.

HILL's letter favoring bimetallic coinage and expressing indignation at the rapacity of the gold monometalists came too late to do him any good, even if it would have done so at any time. It is alleged to have been written long ago and not intended for publication, but the whole thing is so thin as to leave an impression that it is not as old as his friends would have you believe it is.

It must be as easy as rolling off a log to graduate in medicine. The colleges turn out thousands upon thousands every year of callow youths who go forth to prey upon the human system and with less knowledge of its construction than a jack leg carpenter has of a house. The Kentucky School of Medicine turned out 187 this week in one batch and there are several more medical colleges in Louisville.

For reasons, which he clearly states, Judge John W. Hughes, of Mercer, has withdrawn from the race for Commonwealth's Attorney, giving John Sam Owsley, Jr., a clear track as the race now stands. Judge Hughes is a clever and competent gentleman and made many friends during his canvass, who will hope for a chance yet to honor him.

MR. WATTERSON'S two papers have harped in season and out on the game fight he made for Bill Owens for temporary chairman and have told with more or less flourish of trumpets how single handed and alone he had carried his point. That's all very well, but too much even of a good thing is nauseating and gives one a very tired and worn out feeling.

MR. WATTERSON acted very much like a spoiled child. He wouldn't take a place on the platform committee or do anything else he was expected to do, but strange to say the old thing wagged just the same.

If we can not win with Grover we cannot with anybody and if we are to go down we had better go on principle, than on expediency. But we are not going down and don't you forget it.

MR. OWENS, the temporary chairman, made a pretty nice little speech, but the absence of key notes which Mr. Watterson promised that he would make was quite marked.

HANDY REFRIGERATOR.

How One Can Be Made at Home for Six Dollars or Less.

Here is an ice box or refrigerator that can be made at a cost not exceeding $6, and perhaps less, if made at home, which will be as serviceable as one costing $25 to $100. The box shown is first made of inch boards 4 feet square in front, and extending back 5 feet. One hundred and twenty-five feet of boards will more than make it. It should be heavily supported at D D by 2 inch scantling which is to extend 2 inches below its bottom edge for legs. Screws or heavy wrought nails clinched are needed. After boring the legs and mounting the box on heavy casters the door should be cut at B in the first illustration. A penciled line should be carefully followed with the compass saw, as this portion of the box will always be conspicuous. Glue the boards removed and build a beveled packing 4 inches thick on the inside of this door to fit the packing of the box closely.

Now get into the box and line it so it can hold between lining and outside 4 inches of powdered charcoal or ground cork, which is equally useful as a non-conductor of heat and moisture, much cleaner to handle and better, because the completed refrigerator will be lighter than with cork. The bottom will not need over 2 or 3 inches of the material. The cork can be got for little or nothing at a restaurant where fancy fruits are bought. It is used to pack them safely from heat and moisture. Next nail cleats to the inside of the lining 20 inches from the top, and place 1x2 inch strips on them across the box to support the ice tank (see A A). This should be made of zinc soldered securely and stayed at the corners with extra strips. It is 2x3 feet and 18 inches deep with a 2-inch flare and loose edges to turn down on the top of the lining for nailing in place. From its deepest point a small pipe 6 inches long should lead out on a line from the bottom and be fitted with a screw to a faucet. Then lining and side must be bored, the pipe put through and the cork attached. This is for removing the melted ice. If preferred the pipe can lead into the cooling space beneath, and the water be caught in a pitcher kept there for the purpose, or it can convey it through the packing and drip with or without a faucet in a pan under the box. The box cover must be packed like the box and a zinc projection 2 inches thick be fastened to it to hang down in the ice chamber to drip in any condensation of moisture. The top of the box must be flat and fit the cover closely. To make the cover look less clumsy nail a strip of molding around it. Hinge it with heavy hinges. For the door heavy japanned or bronzed hinges should reach half way across the front.

Now swing open the door B and look in. We see the bottom of the tank on the strips at A. Under this is a space nearly 5 feet deep, which should be covered with zinc tacked to the lining and soldered. Small projections should be soldered to it to hold movable shelves on either side of the door and extending to the back of the interior. These will hold small dishes and the center large things like cans of milk. Such an arrangement will set the milk of a small dairy in pans or deep cans, besides serving the kitchen. It should be strained and placed under the ice at once after milking. The legs (D D in Fig. 1) are hid by neat pieces of board mitered. They should hang down far enough to nearly hide the casters. If a particularly nice piece of furniture be desired the box may be made of ash, planed, filled and varnished or of walnut. Georgia pine will answer every purpose and look neat if merely oiled.

Refreshing Retreats.

Summer days are fast approaching and now is the time that excursionists, pleasure-seekers and sportsmen should start on their vacation. In doing so, the delightfully cool summer and fishing resorts located along the Wisconsin Central Lines come vividly to view, among which are Fox Lake, IL, Lake Villa, IL, Mukwonago, Waukegan, Cedar Lake, Neenah, Waubesa, Fishertown, Ashland, Wis. Wisconsin has within the last five years become the center of attraction for more pleasure-seekers, hunters and fishermen than any other State in the Union and each visit increases the desire to again see the charming landscape, breathe the balsam fragrance that is a part of the invigorating atmosphere, wander through the colonnades of stately places and look the speckled beauties with a hand made fly.

For pamphlets containing valuable information, etc., apply to T. S. PATTY, D. P. A., JAS. C. POND, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

There is no danger from whooping cough when this remedy is freely given. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

It is the best, the most reliable and most successful treatment known and is pleasant to take. For sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

LOSS OF FERTILITY.

Western Farmers Are Sending Their Farms to the East.

Too much cannot be said to the farmers of the west about keeping up the fertility of their farms. The abandoned farms of New England, the growing distress of the farmer everywhere who has wasted the energies of his farm, are all examples of sharp import to point the lesson. A well-written statement of the situation from a western standpoint is found in the following from E. C. Bennett in the Creamery and Dairy. It goes straight to the mark, and well would it be for us all if we would learn to obey the principles here brought out:

Sending our farms east is just what western farmers are doing. The dairyman is the least guilty of all, and he can reverse the process; he can pile some other fellow's farm right on top of his, save money while doing it, and add to his possessions at the same time. The conditions are these:

Plants feed in part upon the atmosphere and in part upon the soil. When a plant is taken off the farm the portion of that plant which came from the soil is lost. In selling $300 worth of wheat $45 worth of farm fertility goes with it, figuring wheat and fertility at their average market values. When we sell $300 worth of beef we part with $22 worth of fertility. With $300 worth of pork we throw in $12 worth of fertility. With a horse selling at $300 we lose only $7 worth of fertility, and when we ship $300 worth of good butter we ship with it but 25 cents' worth of fertility, for the fat of butter comes from the air, and only the little caseine in it (less than 1 per cent.) comes from the soil. But if we sell cheese or whole milk instead of butter, the case is very different. In that case all the caseine of the milk leaves the farm, and the loss in fertility (for caseine is nitrogenous and comes from the soil) is nearly 100 times greater.

Eastern farmers buy bones by the carload, gathered upon the western plains, for use as fertilizers. They buy our thin steers so they will not have to grow bones at the expense of their farm's fertility, and buy our corn to fatten them. In this way they save the $22 worth of fertility (or the most of it) represented in the bones and lean meat, add the fat of the corn and sell the beef at a gain of fertility to the farm which comes by increased manure heaps.

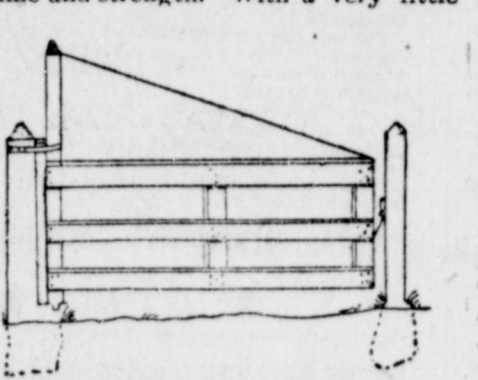

Our dairymen who sell only the butter fat and feed the skim milk, lose but an insignificant amount of fertility, and using clover in rotation (a plant which has the power of appropriating some fertility from the air) keeps good the stock of soil fertility. More than this—and this is a point we especially desire to make prominent—by buying bran and feeding his cows he adds fertility to his soil at the expense of the fellow who raised the wheat. Nearly all the nitrogen of wheat is found in the bran and shorts. The wheat-raiser's farm is steadily leaving him in the coating of wheat kernels. Now, the dairyman who buys the cream of the wheat-raiser's land, if he sells only butter fat, this fertile part of the wheat-grower's farm remains on the dairyman's farm.

Dairying has a four-fold advantage over other branches of farming. It brings out cash; it yields more money for the feed consumed; it saves the natural fertility of the farm; it makes increased fertility easy.

EASILY OPERATED GATE.

Just as Cheap as the Clumsy Affairs Now in General Use.

It seems a little strange that when gates are so necessary on a farm, and require opening and closing so frequently, the majority of those seen are such clumsy, back-breaking affairs, which have to be lifted about or slid back and forth at the expense of much time and strength. With a very little ingenuity and almost no additional expense, a durable and handy gate may be substituted. J. S. McIntyre, Braeshear, Mo., sends the following plan, illustrated herewith, to the Orange Judd Farmer. Secure a gate post having a large limb or fork about seven feet from the post, set it solidly, saw the fork off six inches above ground, bore into it a 2-inch hole two inches deep. Use a 4 by 4 inch oak stick 7 feet long for upright of gate frame on the side next the gatepost. Reduce the lower end to two inches in diameter to fit the hole in limb of gatepost. Round off edges at the top where a strong iron band goes loosely around it and fastens to the post. Make the remainder of the gate of any strong light material and run a strong wire from the top of long upright to the opposite side of gate to keep it from sagging. Any form of latch may be used. This gate will swing either way and a child can open it.

Detasseling Corn.

The process of detasseling corn consists in removing the upper portion of the stalk to which the spray of male or pollen-bearing flowers is attached. Several experiments have shown that it increases the crop to remove the tassels from fully one-half of the stalks before the pollen is shed. The results of some extensive tests made by the Nebraska experiment station show the opposite effect. There was a uniformly lessened yield upon the plots when one-half of the stalks were detasseled. Similar results obtained when the tassels were removed after the pollen had been matured and scattered. In view of these results, it does not seem wise to interfere with nature for profit's sake.—American Agriculturist.

HOUSE-SHOE PATTERN.

Footgear for Children to Be Worn at All Seasons of the Year.

This is the diagram of a house shoe for children. The lady who gave me the diagram and pattern says: "My own little lad wears them in the house with great comfort to himself and I need scarcely add to his mother likewise." The pattern will not, of course, fit every child of the same age; one may need a higher instep, another a more slender ankle. For every body wear make them of thick, heavy cloth and line with cloth suitable for the season; in winter with woolen or cotton flannel; in summer with lighter material.

Measure the child's foot and cut and baste a shoe out of any cloth and fit it before cutting the goods. First sew the seams 1 and 2; next sew 3 and 4 from the instep to the toe; now fold so the seam will come exactly in the middle of the toe and sew across the toe. Cut the lining a little smaller so it will, when the outside is turned, slip into it easily. If one does not care if the seams show on the inside the outside and lining may be basted together and sewed in one seam. Sew on the machine so the seams may be firm and the stitching even. Bind the top and opening with braid or ribbon; work eyelets each side of the opening and lace with cord or ribbon.

Very dainty little shoes can be made of velvet or silk and ornamented with embroidery. Cut from blue velvet and line with buff or gold-colored cotton flannel or silk; bind the edges with ribbon the shade of the lining; work the eyelets with the same shade of silk and lace with gold-colored cord and tassels; finish with a tiny rosette of the binding ribbon at the toes. For a baby they may be made of satin and embroidered at the toes, around the top and at each side of the opening. My friend suggests rose-colored satin or velvet lined with flannel, embroidered with a pattern of tiny green fern leaves, eyelets worked in green, the edges buttonholed with green and laced with a green silk cord having a tiny silver bell on each end.—S. E. Welch, in Ohio Farmer.

SWEEPING A ROOM.

Valuable Hints for Housekeepers from Maria Parloa.

The preparation of a room for sweeping and the arrangement of the furniture after the room has been cleaned are by far the greater part of the work, writes Maria Parloa in the Ladies' Home Journal. The first step is to dust all the ornaments and place them on a firm table in another room. Next, dust all the plain furniture, using a soft cloth and removing the lighter pieces from the room. Now beat and brush all the stuffed articles, using a brush to clean the tufting and creases.

When everything movable has been taken from the room and all the large pieces covered dust the pictures with a feather duster or a cloth; then cover the pictures. Brush the ceiling and walls with a long feather duster or a soft cloth fastened on a broom. Brush all dust from the tops of the doors and windows. Have the windows open all the while. If there be portieres and window draperies that can be taken down put them on the clothesline and shake them well.

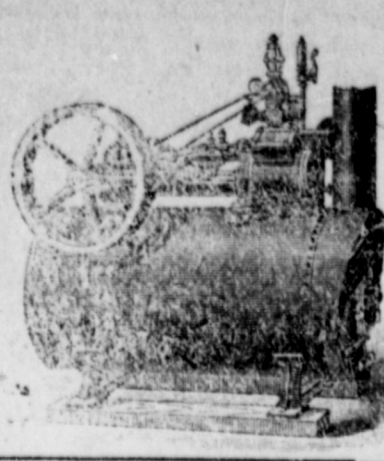

Take up all the rugs, and, if you have grass in the yard, lay them upon it, right side down, and beat well with a switch or rattan; then shake. If you have no place where you can spread them, hang them on the line and beat them well. Have a good broom, not too heavy, for the carpets. Sweep in one direction only, taking short strokes. Take up the dirt with a dustpan and corn broom. When the dust settles, go over the carpet once more, having first freed your broom of all lint, thread, etc. When the dust has again settled, dust the room with a soft cloth.

Put three quarts of warm water and three tablespoonfuls of household ammonia in a pail. Wring a clean piece of old flannel out of this, and wipe every part of the carpet, wringing the cloth as it becomes soiled. Now wash the windows, and wipe off any marks there may be on the paint. Remove the coverings from the pictures and furniture, being careful not to scatter the dust. Bring back the rugs and hangings, and arrange them.

Finally, put the furniture and ornaments in place. If one has proper covers for the pictures and heavy pieces of furniture in the room, a great amount of trouble can be saved on the sweeping day. Buy cheap print cloth for the furniture. Have three breadths in the cover, and have it 5/8 yards long. It should be hemmed, and the work can be done quickly on a sewing machine. I find six cloths a convenient number, although we do not always need so many.

How to Part the Hair.

A fancy has arisen for a parting in the hair. Few women can stand one just in the center of the head, for that requires a good forehead, a perfectly outlined pair of eyebrows and a straight nose. However, the hair can be parted on the top of the head a little to one side, or indeed, if it is becoming, very much to one side, and the parting not allowed to come through the short fringe which is just over the forehead, and which produces a softening effect. Few women can afford to do without the bang, which is, when properly cut, and becomingly arranged, decidedly the most universally becoming mode that has ever been known.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A SPLENDID CROP of wheat is being harvested, though in some localities rust has injured it to the extent of 10 to 15 per cent. Even with that the crop will be largely over the average.

A DISPATCH says that glass eyed Charley Henderson, who bunked old man Burke in Boyle, is not in Sing Sing, as reported, but is making an "honest" living running a small circus at Chicago.

The little child of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Hourigan, notice of whose illness was made in our last issue, died of brain trouble Monday and was buried at Lebanon Tuesday. His name was Lucien McCoy and his age five months. The young mother, who was Miss Maud Rupley, is almost broken hearted over her loss and much sympathy is felt for her and her husband.

MARSHAL O. J. NEWLAND is a square man in every particular. It matters not whether he is bitten by somebody else's dog or somebody else by his he is willing to make things right. Young Tommy Wallace claimed that Mr. Newland's dog bit him, when the clever marshal without word or thought went forth and shot the canine, which was a pet in the entire family. Let the good work continue.

CHANGE OF MEETING PLACE.—By invitation received from the Mercer County Medical Society, the next meeting of the Central Kentucky Medical Association will be held in Harrodsburg the 3d Wednesday in July next at 10:30 o'clock A. M. The discussion will be on "Brain Surgery," the paper to be read by Dr. Kinnaird, of Lancaster. Members will govern themselves accordingly. Steele Bailey, M. D., Secretary.

SOME time ago Mrs. John McClure, of the East End, left her husband, it was alleged, to find happiness in illicit love with Robert Lee Davis. At any rate they went off together and there were many grounds to suspect their intimacy. Mrs. McClure seems to have tired of life, however, without the man she had promised to love and obey and one night this week she returned to Crab Orchard and sent for him. He had refused to go at last accounts and another eering woman must henceforth find that the way of the transgressor is hard.

AN old time stage, driven by M. C. Burton, who was en route to Burnside to run it between that point and Monticello, passed through here Tuesday and created as much of a sensation as a circus band wagon. Many of the younger generation had never seen one and the other citizens had not since the line from here to Somerset ceased in 1877. Photographer A. J. Earp "caught it with his Kodak" and will make pictures of it for sale. The old concern has been run between Richmond and Irvine, but the cars had driven its occupation away.

THE directors of the Lincoln County Stock Fair Association met at the Court-house Tuesday afternoon, when George Miller Givens accepted the presidency and occupied the chair. In the absence of Secretary E. C. Walton, Assistant Secretary Joe T. Embry acted as clerk. The following committees were then appointed: On programme: Wm. Moreland, P. W. Green, W. W. Hays, J. S. Owsley, Sr.; to secure grounds: S. M. Owens, P. W. Green, J. T. Embry; music and printing: E. C. Walton, J. T. Embry; to solicit special premiums: W. B. McKinney, W. H. Wearen, Al Severance, W. E. McAfee, G. R. Bright, J. P. Crow. The secretary was directed to publish the letting of the fair privileges in the INTERIOR JOURNAL and Cincinnati Enquirer. The committee on programme will meet at the Court house next Tuesday evening at 1 o'clock and the secretary was directed to notify all directors to meet at the Court house Wednesday, 29th, at 3 o'clock P. M. The directors are determined that the fair shall be a success and will exert themselves to the utmost to that end. Let everybody lend a helping hand. There is no reason why Lincoln should not have a good fair and a permanent association.

Don't forget Zimmer when you want a cool, refreshing saucer of ice cream.

NOTHING to equal Swans Down Flour; sold only by Jesse D. Wearen, the Fancy Grocer.

WALLY SINGLETON was acquitted at McKinney yesterday of fornication with Jennie Jones, who is in an interesting condition.

THE ice plant has arrived and so has some of the electric light machinery. The new boulevard to the water works makes them easy of access and also furnishes a nice drive to the ball park.

It is rumored that the Lancaster Record has been sold to some Indiana men and the fact that the late capable editor, Mr. R. E. Hughes, has gone to Atlanta, with a view of locating, gives color to it.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL, Jr., seem to be better ball players than the seniors. At least they met a good nine from Danville Wednesday afternoon and beat them 16 to 11, after a splendid game. The Danvilles kicked on their own umpire, Elting, and G. L. Penny was substituted.

GREEN BRIAR SPRINGS will not open regularly for the reception of guests until Monday, June 27th, but Col. Slaughter has received notice that quite a number of guests will arrive on Saturday from Louisville. George O. Barnes will arrive on Wednesday, June 29th, and commence his meetings at Green Briar.

THE nomination of Grover Cleveland was made at 3:40 A. M. yesterday and by 6:30 our clever and accommodating telegraph operator, Mr. Frank L. Clifford, had given us the dispatch and it was on the INTERIOR JOURNAL bulletin board. There's nothing like having a good man like Mr. Clifford around in times of anxiety and hope.

THE little child of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Walton was buried in Buffalo Cemetery Wednesday evening just as the shades of night were gathering. A number of friends from Danville came with the little body and with those from town who had gathered at the grave, a scene of calmness and sadness was presented as Rev. Ben Helm read a chapter from the Bible, spoke a few words of comfort to the father and friends and pronounced the benediction. Then the earth shut from view the little coffin and all was over so far as human hands could do. May the grieving parents find consolation in the thought that their offspring is spared a life that is at best but sorrow and disappointment, and cease to mourn.

BESTED AGAIN.—The least said about the game of base ball between our namesakes and the Nicholasvilles Tuesday the better. We were beaten fairly and squarely and not a member of the club can urge even the most infinitesimal wrong done them while in the goodly town of Nicholasville. Pleasant and kind to them in every particular, the I. J's. will remember with gratitude their trip to Jessamine's capital with a decided degree of pleasure. No geying, no kicking, no advantage whatever on the part of the umpire and in fact nothing that would add to our displeasure was done and consequently we feel good toward the place, its inhabitants and each and every member of the base ball club. Our boys took a very weak nine over and no member of the club expected anything but defeat, but they hoped to come out better than 8 to 3 as the score stood. Neither Rice, Embury nor Turner could go and it was necessary to fill out with such timber as they could get. Conover and Remin for the Nicholasvilles did good work, as did Holman and Reynolds for our team, but the latter were poorly supported and by bad throwing and other errors the I. J's. lost the game. The same clubs will meet at Rochester Park to-day and a good game, unmolested by geying and other Tom-foolery may be looked for. The kids have heretofore done a good deal of jeering and the like on our grounds, but it must and will be stopped or the guilty ones will be put off the grounds. An occasional yell when good plays are made is all right, but when dirty flings are made towards either the umpire's decisions or the visiting team it is an exhibition of bad raising that our club will refuse to hereafter permit under any circumstances.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of the Proposed 13th Judicial District of Kentucky.

Some months ago I announced my intention of becoming a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney in this, the 13th judicial district. At that time I supposed the office would pay $1,500 or $2,000 a year, but under the new constitution the salary is fixed at $500 per annum and a certain percentage of the fines in misdemeanor cases.

On a thorough investigation I find that this percentage amounts to but little, or almost nothing. The office is a responsible one and requires the whole time of an attorney if he faithfully discharges his duties. I therefore decline to make the race, as I feel that I cannot afford to accept the office.

In retiring, I desire to express my sincere thanks and grateful appreciation to my friends who have kindly manifested an interest in my behalf by their proffered support. Very Respectfully,

J. W. HUGHES.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

—The House killed the Senate bill for the destruction of the Canada thistles.

—The House at Frankfort adopted a resolution not to adjourn for the summer vacation until the Revenue and Taxation bill becomes a law. This is hardly possible, it is argued, before August. The $5 a day is too much for the majority of that body to give up even for a recess.

—The governor sent in the following nominations: F. H. Clarke, to succeed himself as medical superintendent of the Lexington Insane Asylum and Len G. Hudson as a member of the board of commissioners of the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Danville, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Wm. Berkeley.

WRITTEN AT MY MOTHER'S GRAVE.

BY GEO. D. PRENTICE.

From Dear Kate's Scrap-Book.

The trembling dew drops fall
Upon the shutting flowers, like souls at rest;
The stars shine gloriously and all
Save me are blest.

Mother! I love thy grave!
The violet, with its blossoms blue and mild,
Wave o'er thy head; when will it wave
Above thy child?

'Tis a sweet flower, yet must its Bright leaves to the morning tempests bow,
Dear mother, 'tis thine emblem; dust
Is on thy brow.

And could I love to die;
To leave untasted life's dark bitter streams,
By thee, as erst in childhood, lie
And share thy dreams.

And I must linger here,
To stain the plumage of thy sinless years,
And mourn the hopes to childhood dear,
With bitter tears.

Aye, I must linger here,
A lonely branch upon a withered tree,
Whose last frail leaf untimely sear,
Went down with thee.

Oh from life's withered bower,
In still communion with the past I turn
And muse on thee, the only flower
In memory's urn.

And when the evening pale
Bows, like a mourner, on the dim blue wave,
I stray to hear the night winds wail
Around thy grave.

Where is thy spirit flown?
I gaze above—thy look is imaged there!
I listen and thy gentle tone
Is on the air.

Oh! come, while here I press
My brow upon thy grave; and in those mild
And thrilling tones of tenderness,
Bless, bless thy child!

Yes, bless your weeping child;
And o'er thine urn, religion's holiest shrine,
Oh, give his spirit, undefiled,
To blend with thine.

Happy Jack the Happiest Man in Stanford.

STANFORD, June 23.—I took a shave
and bath and glass of—soda last night—went to bed, got up this morning and donned the cleanest kind of shirt and collar, stepped over to Walton's bulletin board and there stood a big fat fellow with 616 other fat ones around him.
"Good morning, Mr. Jack. My name is Cleveland; 25 of this crowd around here are acquaintances of yours—the rest of the 616 are from different parts of our great country and are brethren of ours and you can learn their names at your leisure. An old acquaintance of yours named Watterson, I believe they call him, is not here."

Just then I woke up and Walton was pulling at me to let me know Grover was on the track and that my dream was true to the letter, including the clean shirt and collar and Watterson's absence. Mirabile dictu. What will we do with Henry anyhow? We have been trying to make something out of him ever since the war and we just can't,
for the life of us Kentuckians we can't keep him from spreading himself all over the country and trying to make something out of all the people instead of letting us make a little something out of him. Henry's spread is too thin to spread over everything and for one I am determined to let him freeze to death
rather than undertake to take him out of the cold any more. We let him in at Louisville as a matter of politeness, blackened his boots, &c., &c., &c., and like a petted child always is, he sat down in the street and threw dirt all over his new suit. Did you ever hear of a spoiled child behaving as badly as our Henry? I feel like taking his breeches down.

As for Mr. Hill, he wasn't in it except in New York and I don't blame him for wanting the world to know his good home standing and I am for him as he stands to-day. Don't want to say and won't say a word "agin him." I was driving along after my mules, last winter, through the town of Americus, Ga., where Mr. Crisp lives, and was engaged in reading the sign boards as well as driving my mules, a country Jake will do that way. That was just after D. B.
H. left Georgia. Over the door of a little house on a corner hung a sign which read: "David B. Hill, Dealer in Coffins." I wonder what that meant?

HAPPY JACK.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Some of the young folks of London
went to Speaks' Mill Tuesday to picnic
and court.

—Mrs. Bettie Farris, James Johnson, Charley Baugh and Misses Bettie, Mary and Frankie Baugh left Wednesday for a fishing trip on Rockcastle River at Cruse's Ferry.

—County Superintendent W. D. Weaver is making some marked improvements in his home and tells me he will remodel it entirely and have as nice a little place as anybody.

—Judge W. L. Jackson, who is to acting as special judge in a case at Manchester, passed through Tuesday on his way to that place. Hon. Henry Eversole went from this place with him.

—Tuesday night James Tipton broke jail and made his escape. He was the only prisoner allowed outside the cage
in the jail, being what is termed a trusty, but was not allowed outside the room built around the cage. Tuesday evening he professed to be very sick and some time in the night removed the brick from under one of the windows and is now in parts unknown. He was serving out a $100 fine.

—In Chicago, Agnes Huntington's chorus girls were fined $250 each for wearing Cleveland badges on the stage and the girls thereupon destroyed 60 costumes.

WHITELAW REID'S HOMES.

The Editor of the New York Tribune
Has Two Fine Residences.

Whitelaw Reid, the Republican candidate for vice president, has a city and a country residence. His country seat has a history. It was founded many years ago by the famous Ben Holladay, who built a stone castle in imitation of or adaptation from some famous castle

MRS. WHITELAW REID.

of the Old World. It stands upon a commanding point in Westchester county, N. Y., overlooking Long Island sound and a vast region eastward and westward. The place as a whole is not excelled as a country seat in America.
And Mr. Holladay, in memory of his western career, named it Ophir Farm.
He was reared in a cabin, lived to be many times a millionaire and to see both his daughters countesses then lost his wealth and consequently his lovely estate.

John Roach, the famous shipbuilder,
became the owner and he, too, succumbed. His son Garrett became nominal owner and soon died. Then Mr.
Reid bought it, but the "hoodoo," as our colored friends say, still "bore down," and in 1888 the mansion was destroyed by fire. A new and more imposing mansion has risen on its ruins.

Mr. Reid's residence in New York city is widely noted, and a complete description would fill many columns like this.
It is the famous "Italian palace" designed by Henry Villard some ten years ago, and stands at the corner of Fifth street and Madison avenue, directly facing the famous Catholic cathedral.
The location is in the very heart of high toned New York, in the central section of the creme de la creme. The plan, as drawn by Mr. Stanford White, was for a structure consisting of three wings, having the form of a square with one side open. The plan was slightly modified by Mr. Villard, so the style is now spoken of as that of "the Italian Renaissance somewhat Americanized."

REID'S CITY RESIDENCE.

Mr. Villard was "finished" as a millionaire before the house was, and in 1886, for $400,000, it became the property and home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. Their dining room and the smaller room, known as a coffee room, with doors of heavy paneled oak, ceiling spanned by magnificent cross beams, delicately carved panels and magnificent fireplace, are the admiration of aesthetic New York. The library is also noted for its artistic beauty. Mrs. Reid is more devoted to her husband and home than to society, but has shown her social capacity in France, and is a fitting hostess for the New York palace.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—M. B. Smith and Miss Seaneey Walls were married Wednesday at the bride's mother's, near Wayneburg.

—The gossips are telling of a marriage
shortly to occur here that will surprise
some people, who have not kept up with the procession.

—The betrothal is announced of Princess Margaret, youngest sister of Emperor William, and Prince Charles Frederick, oldest son of the Landgrave of Hesse.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely in their merits. A. R. Penny, Druggist.

tion, Rheumatism and Paralysis, Epilepsy or Fits positively cured.
The people are prosperous, generous and kind, believing in Christianity and education. There is no neighborhood in the county but has a good church and school-house.

Stanford, the county seat of Lincoln, is a prosperous little city of about 2,500 inhabitants and is the great doorway from the North and Northeast South and from the North and Southeast, and standing as it does gazing right into the bosom of the undeveloped mountains of Southeastern Kentucky backed up by the whole Blue-Grass region of the State with railroads running through it to all points of the compass, makes it naturally one of the best located towns in the South for manufactures and other enterprises of magnitude.

Water Works are now being agitated and right about the town about three-fourths of a mile there could be erected Water Works with very little cost that would supply a city of 100,000 inhabitants with the purest and best water in the world. Our little city has been newly rebuilt in the last few years and its business houses and residences will compare with larger cities of greater pretensions. Our merchants and tradesmen are all prosperous and doing well. We have two banks with a capital stock of $500,000 that are prosperous and in a good condition.

We have splendid schools. We have a Female College, a large brick building, with over 100 pupils in attendance and under the principalship of Prof. J. M. Hubbard, is in a flourishing condition. We also have a Seminary that is a good school, with Prof. E. F. Blakeman at its head. We have one of the best Public School buildings in this section of the State, with over 100 pupils in attendance, and with other good private schools,
you see our school facilities are excellent.

We have elegant church buildings, representing every denomination with a full corps of ministers of high class talent and are doing a better business than any class of men in the city.

I have tried to make this statement as facts, without any exaggeration or coloring, as those who know will bear me out, and those who wish to buy pleasant homes at fair prices and locate among a good people with all the best business opportunities would do well to call and see me before purchasing elsewhere
